

Preface

I arrived at UC Berkeley in January 2005 to take over leadership of a vibrant community of researchers in the Phonology Lab. This group produces a large number of research papers every year, many of which are subsequently published in various journals, conference proceedings, and books.

I am initiating this annual report series to collect in one place the research output of the lab so that our colleagues around the world will more easily be able to keep up with what we're doing, and so that we can more easily and completely report our activities to our funders and supporters.

The report is of work in progress, which means that the manuscripts may report early stages of research, or may be prepublication versions of papers that will be improved in later revisions. When a published version becomes available we will add the publication information in the on-line table of contents.

The Phonology Lab is generously supported by the UCB Division of Social Sciences, UCB Department of Linguistics, The Holbrook Fund for Experimental Phonetics, the National Institutes of Health, and the National Science Foundation.
