

2010 Annual Report of the UC Berkeley Phonology Lab.

This on-line annual report serves as a record of the research activity of the Phonology Lab members during this year and provides advance copies of articles and chapters that will appear later in peer-reviewed journals and books. These manuscript versions of our papers are published here on-line partly for our own records, and partly as a service to other researchers who may be interested in the work.

As this collection of papers illustrates, the members of the Phonology Lab study language sound systems from a number of different perspectives. Mixing these perspectives provides a rich, productive environment in which to do research. I am personally very proud of the culture of productive engagement that characterizes the Berkeley Phonology Lab, and am particularly grateful to my faculty colleagues for fostering this great environment. I learn a lot here.

The Phonology Lab is generously supported by the UCB Committee on Research, UCB Division of Social Sciences, UCB Department of Linguistics, and The Holbrook Fund for Experimental Phonetics.
